

Online Ethics Center
FOR ENGINEERING AND SCIENCE

Privacy by Design: An Engineering Ethics Perspective

Author(s)

Anonymous

Description

This is a panel discussion from the Markkula Center for Applied Ethics. It includes engineers from Mozilla, Disconnect, and Princeton University offering perspectives on how to "bake in" a concern for privacy when developing new products.

Body

ExternalURL

<https://www.scu.edu/ethics/focus-areas/internet-ethics/resources/privacy-by-des...>

Rights

Use of Materials on the OEC

Resource Type

Multimedia

Topics

Privacy and Surveillance

Discipline(s)

Computer, Math, and Physical Sciences

Authoring Institution

