

Online Ethics Center
FOR ENGINEERING AND SCIENCE

Fred Cuny (1944-1995) -- Disaster Relief Innovator

Description

Fred Cuny was a disaster relief specialist who used his training in engineering to do humanitarian work. He worked in countries such as Biafra, Guatemala, Ethiopia, Iraq, Somalia, and Bosnia. In March 1995, he disappeared in Chechnya and was never found. The story of his work is told in 8 sections and includes supplementary materials and pictures.

Body

Introduction

Fred Cuny was a disaster relief specialist who used his training in engineering to do humanitarian work. He worked in countries such as Biafra, Guatemala, Ethiopia, Iraq, Somalia, and Bosnia. In March 1995, he disappeared in Chechnya and was never found. His life was featured on the PBS documentary program Frontline.

- I. Fred Cuny Background Information
- II. Biafra \(1969\): The Beginning of Full-time Disaster Relief Work
- III. Guatemala \(1976\): Earthquake Relief
- IV. Ethiopia \(1985\): Famine
- V. Iraq \(1991\): The Kurds
- VI. Somalia \(1992\): The War Zone and Famine
- VII. Bosnia \(1993\): The Water Filtration System

VIII. Chechnya \(1995\): The Disappearance

IX. Frontline: The Lost American

Most of the information contained herein is drawn from the Frontline documentary on Fred Cuny, the Cuny section of the PBS web site, and Professional Responsibility: Focusing on the Exemplary by Michael S. Pritchard of Western Michigan University.

You can find more information on these materials and other Cuny-related sources in section 9.

Rights

Use of Materials on the OEC

Resource Type

Case Study / Scenario

Parent Collection

Engineers and Scientists Behaving Well

Topics

Human Rights

Catastrophes, Hazards, Disasters

Sustainability

Discipline(s)

Engineering